Employment and duties

- Dean, Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University April 2006–October 2008
- Associate Professor, Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University, 2004-present. I have been teaching Thai Economy , economics of industrialization, labour economics, and law and economics at the undergraduate level and microeconomics and macroeconomics in the graduate program of business economics
- Vice President, the Sectoral Economic Program, TDRI, 1996-1997. I managed a research program which consisted of 10 Ph.D. consultants, 3 research fellows, 3 research associates, 10 research assistants and 3 secretariat staff. My prime responsibility was almost like running a consultant firm. Besides the marketing responsibilities which dealt with contacting the funding agencies and writing research proposals, I had monitored the research work carried out by the consultants and the research fellows. I also did the research by myself. In each year, the SEP had about 6-8 research projects. The SEP's research is micro-economics policy oriented. The areas of research include impact of liberalization policies in various sectors, structural adjustment of the agricultural sector, competitiveness of the manufacturing sectors, and industrial organization studies, project evaluation, etc.
- Director, Sectoral Economics Program, TDRI, 1993-1995.
- Chairman of the Working Committee on Environmental Studies Curriculum, Thammasat University, 1991-93.
- Chairman of the Seminar Committee, Thammasat University, 1987-90.
- Managing Editor, Thammasat Economic Journal, 1988-93.
- Assistant Professor, Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University, Bangkok, Thailand. 1996-2003 I taught courses in microeconomics, macroeconomics, economic comparative system, labor economics, and taught project evaluation techniques in the training programs for business-men and government officers. I also did extensive research studies in human resources, rural economy, labor and credit markets, and project evaluation of government programs.

- Visiting Professor of the Executive MBA Program and Mini MBA Program, Faculty of Commerce and Accountancy, Thammasat University 1984-present. I've been teaching business economics to the executives in the MBA program since its establishment in 1983. In the mini MBA program, I have been teaching environmental economics, Thai economy and microeconomics for businessmen.

- Research Fellow at Population Institute, East West Center, 1983, 1988-89. I did research on the forecast of housing, demand for health services and labor force.

- Consultant to ADB , the World Bank and the FAO I have regularly been hired as a consultant in various projects such as the country economic memorandum study, vocational educational study, rural credit, agricultural and trade policies, etc.
